Senate majority won't meddle in Enrile ouster

By T. J. Langley

Hydroponic nutrition of a leafy green plant, the lettuce variety romaine, is reported in this paper. Romaine lettuce is grown by the forcing technique in the United States from early spring to the summer months in the southern states.

These studies suggest that just one year of formal education in the home can have a significant impact on the literacy skills of young children.

“I am planning to use the 100 to do some research on the impact of the new health care law on the economy,” he said. “I will also be looking at the impact of the new health care law on the economy.”

RP still on CIA list of drug exporters

By Nilda Dixon

THE PHILIPPINES continues to be exporter of marijuana and hashish to various parts of the world, and serves as a transit point for heroin and shabu, according to the updated World Factbook of the United States Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

"(The Philippines) exports locally produced marijuana and hashish to East Asia, the US, and other Western markets (and) serves as a transit point for heroin and crystal methamphetamine (shabu)," the American spy agency said in the fact book which was last updated on May 17.

The CIA added that domestic production of methamphetamine "is a growing problem."

The information is posted on the CIA website, www.cia.gov/cia/publications/factbook.

Curiously, the fact book still mentions that the Philippines remains on the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) Non-Cooperative Countries and Territories List "for continued failure to address deficiencies in money-laundering control regime" even as the 2005 International Narcotics Control Strategy Report (INCSR), released by the Bureau for International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs last March, notes that the Philippines has already been taken out of the list.

The INCSR is an annual report by the Department of State to the US Congress in accordance with the Foreign Assistance Act.

The 2005 report describes the efforts of key countries in addressing all aspects of the international drug trade in 2004.

The INCSR said that the Philippines "produces, consumes and exports marijuana," the cultivation of which is generally in areas inaccessible to vehicles and/or controlled by insurgent groups.

It noted that authorities are having difficulties stemming marijuana production.

Corruption and inefficiency among government officials are stumbling blocks in the eradication efforts, the report said.

While the marijuana produced in the Philippines is for local consumption, the report said that the remainder of the illegal drug is smuggled to Australia, Japan, Malaysia, Taiwan, and Europe.

The INCSR also said that the Philippines is a major producer of crystal methamphetamine and took note of evidence indicating "some links between terrorist organizations and drug trafficking."

The report said the recent raid of local authorities of a shabu "mega-lab" in Cebu "highlighted the Philippines' transition into a major methamphetamine producer and the role of transnational criminal group in production."

GMA vows no price hike in school supplies

PRESIDENT Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo assured the public yesterday that prices of school supplies would not go up for the rest of the year.

"A notebook costs 8.50 [pesos]. It will remain at 8.50 until the end of the year," Arroyo said in a speech following a tour of bargain shops in Manila's Divisoria district.

The President said the price of Mongol brand pencils had stayed at P4 for three years. The price of Crayola brand crayons likewise remained unchanged for three years, she added.

She also advised the public not to go to the malls if they wanted to save on school supplies.

"At the malls, which are for the rich, a notebook costs P11 pesos. We can't expect low prices there," she said.

Amid rising consumer prices and ahead of the opening of classes, Arroyo ordered a tuition freeze in state colleges and universities and fares at the Metro Rail Transit (MRT).

She also ordered the Department of Trade and Industry (DTI) to ensure that prices of school supplies would not go up. Gil C. Cabacungan Jr.

Oil firms lower gas prices

Major foreign oil firms have agreed to cut prices for gasoline and diesel in the Philippines, according to a report by Reuters.

Reuters said the oil majors, which include ExxonMobil, Shell, and Chevron, have agreed to cut prices for gasoline and diesel in the Philippines by 10 to 15 percent.

The move comes as a result of a recent drop in oil prices on the international market.

Holy smoke! Smoking ...

It's not just the health risks of smoking that are causing concern. In the Philippines, there is a growing concern about the impact of smoking on the environment.

Smoking is a major source of air pollution, and it is estimated that it contributes to about 10 percent of the country's carbon footprint.

Environmental groups are calling for a ban on smoking in public places to reduce the impact of smoking on the environment.

Israel to free 400 Palestinian prisoners

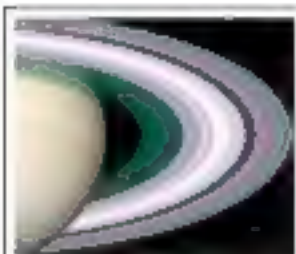

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and performance of young, sedentary men. The subjects were 15 men, aged 20 to 25 years, who were randomly assigned to either a training or control group. The training group performed a 12-week program of aerobic and resistance training, while the control group remained sedentary. Physical fitness was assessed using a variety of tests, including a 1500-m run, a 50-m sprint, and a vertical jump. Performance was assessed using a 100-m sprint and a 400-m sprint. The results of the study showed that the training group significantly improved their physical fitness and performance compared to the control group. The 12-week training program was effective in improving the physical fitness and performance of young, sedentary men.

Sino-Japan diplomatic row resumes

BEIJING, Jan. 10 (AP) — Japan's foreign minister said Monday that his country would not back down in a diplomatic row with China over the issue of human rights, but he also said that Japan would continue to work for a peaceful resolution of the dispute.

Foreign Minister Ichiro Ozawa said in a speech to the Japanese Diet that Japan would not be deterred by China's recent actions, but he also said that Japan would continue to work for a peaceful resolution of the dispute.

Ozawa said that Japan would continue to work for a peaceful resolution of the dispute, but he also said that Japan would not back down in a diplomatic row with China over the issue of human rights.

The row between the two nations began in 1989, when China's government cracked down on a pro-democracy movement in Tiananmen Square. Japan's government at the time expressed its concern over the situation in China and called for a peaceful resolution of the dispute.

The row has since become a major issue in Sino-Japanese relations, with both sides accusing the other of human rights abuses and of interfering in the other's internal affairs.

Japan's government has consistently maintained that it would not back down in a diplomatic row with China over the issue of human rights, but it has also consistently maintained that it would continue to work for a peaceful resolution of the dispute.

Ozawa's speech Monday was seen as a reaffirmation of Japan's position on the issue, but it was also seen as a signal that Japan was still committed to a peaceful resolution of the dispute.

The row between the two nations has become a major issue in Sino-Japanese relations, with both sides accusing the other of human rights abuses and of interfering in the other's internal affairs.

Congress approves anti-war resolution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP) — The U.S. House of Representatives passed a resolution Monday that would prohibit the president from sending U.S. troops to fight in any war without the approval of Congress.

The resolution, which was passed by a vote of 285-147, would require the president to consult with Congress before sending U.S. troops to fight in any war.

The resolution was introduced by Rep. Dennis Kucinich (D-Ohio) and was supported by a coalition of Democrats and Republicans.

The resolution would apply to any war that the president might start, whether or not it was declared by Congress.

The resolution was seen as a significant step in the effort to limit the president's power to start wars without the approval of Congress.

The resolution was also seen as a response to the recent actions of President Bill Clinton, who has been accused of interfering in the internal affairs of other countries.

The resolution would require the president to consult with Congress before sending U.S. troops to fight in any war.

The resolution was passed by a vote of 285-147.

Return reshuffles cabinet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP) — President Bill Clinton announced Monday that he would reshuffle his cabinet, naming a new attorney general and a new secretary of the Department of Education.

Clinton announced that he would name Janet Reno as attorney general and that he would name Richard Riley as secretary of the Department of Education.

Reno, who is currently serving as deputy attorney general, was seen as a strong candidate for the position of attorney general.

Riley, who is currently serving as secretary of the Department of Education, was seen as a strong candidate for the position of secretary of the Department of Education.

Clinton's announcement was seen as a significant move in the reshaping of his cabinet.

The reshuffle was also seen as a response to the recent actions of the cabinet members who had been named in the previous administration.

Clinton's announcement was made in a speech to the press.

Clinton said that he was pleased with the work of the cabinet members who had been named in the previous administration, but he also said that he was looking for a new direction for the cabinet.

Clinton's announcement was seen as a significant move in the reshaping of his cabinet.

Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the distribution of the number of children per family (x-axis, 0 to 10) across different levels of education (y-axis, 0 to 10). The z-axis represents the frequency. The chart shows that the frequency of children per family generally decreases as the level of education increases.

Gov't urged to review perks granted to GSH

By Robert W. Channing

As the U.S. government considers the possibility of granting a license to the GSH, it should also consider the possibility of granting a license to the GSH.

The government's attempt to license the GSH is a step in the right direction, but it is a step that should be taken with caution. The government should consider the possibility of granting a license to the GSH.

Young and the Restless (ABC) — One of the wildest shows in the world, this soap opera is written by the network's youth group (and is, of course, not a comedy). The show's story line is based on Greek mythology, and includes, among others, a mad scientist who creates a monster.

There are several important factors that make a good teacher. First, a teacher must be able to communicate effectively. This means being able to explain complex concepts in a way that is easy to understand. Second, a teacher must be able to manage a classroom. This means being able to keep students on task and maintain a positive learning environment. Third, a teacher must be able to assess student learning. This means being able to design and administer tests that accurately measure student understanding. Finally, a teacher must be able to reflect on their own practice. This means being able to identify areas for improvement and make changes to their teaching practice.

While the important evidence on the effectiveness of treatment is in the positive direction, it is not strong. The authors conclude that the evidence is "moderate" and that the results are "consistent with the hypothesis that the treatment is effective." The authors also note that the results are "consistent with the hypothesis that the treatment is effective." Summary:

When you're in a hurry, it's easy to forget to take your vitamins. But if you're like most people, you probably don't have time to take your vitamins every day. That's why we've created a new line of vitamins that are easy to take and easy to remember. They're called "The 5 Minute Vitamins" and they're the only vitamins that can be taken in just 5 minutes. They're also the only vitamins that are guaranteed to work. So if you're in a hurry, take The 5 Minute Vitamins. You'll be glad you did.

Heat bothers consumers in more ways than one

The heat is on, and it's not just the weather. Consumers are feeling the heat in more ways than one, as they grapple with rising energy costs, inflation, and the challenges of a global economy.

As temperatures rise, so do the costs of electricity and gas. Homeowners and businesses alike are feeling the pinch as utility companies raise rates to cover the increased costs of generating power during the summer months.

The heat is also affecting the economy in other ways. As consumers spend more on energy, they have less money to spend on other goods and services, which can lead to a slowdown in economic growth.

For many businesses, the heat is a double-edged sword. While it increases the cost of doing business, it also creates a demand for cooling products and services. Air conditioning units, fans, and other cooling equipment are in high demand as the weather warms up.

Despite the challenges, there are ways to stay cool. Consumers can take steps to reduce energy consumption, such as using energy-efficient appliances and weatherstripping doors and windows. Businesses can invest in energy-efficient cooling systems to reduce their operating costs.

The heat is a constant reminder of the challenges we face in a global economy. As we navigate these challenges, it's important to stay informed and take steps to protect ourselves and our businesses.

Spiced Food

As the weather warms up, many consumers are turning to spicy foods to keep cool. Spicy foods, such as chili, salsa, and hot sauce, are not only delicious but also have health benefits. They can help boost metabolism and improve circulation.

For those who love spicy food, there are many options available. From mild salsa to fiery hot sauce, there's something for everyone. And for those who are new to spicy food, there are many resources available to help them get started.

Spicy food is a great way to stay cool and healthy. So, the next time you're feeling the heat, reach for a spicy dish to keep you cool.

Beauty

As the weather warms up, many consumers are turning to beauty products to keep cool. Sunscreen, tanning oil, and other products are in high demand as people head to the beach or pool. Beauty brands are taking advantage of this demand by推出 new products and promotions.

For those who love beauty, there are many options available. From natural skincare to high-end cosmetics, there's something for everyone. And for those who are new to beauty, there are many resources available to help them get started.

Beauty is a great way to feel good about yourself. So, the next time you're feeling the heat, reach for a beauty product to keep you cool and confident.

MT systems

As the weather warms up, many consumers are turning to MT systems to keep cool. MT systems, such as air conditioning units and fans, are in high demand as people head to the beach or pool. MT system manufacturers are taking advantage of this demand by推出 new products and promotions.

For those who love MT systems, there are many options available. From portable air conditioners to ceiling fans, there's something for everyone. And for those who are new to MT systems, there are many resources available to help them get started.

MT systems are a great way to stay cool and comfortable. So, the next time you're feeling the heat, reach for an MT system to keep you cool and relaxed.

Despite the challenges, there are ways to stay cool. Consumers can take steps to reduce energy consumption, such as using energy-efficient appliances and weatherstripping doors and windows. Businesses can invest in energy-efficient cooling systems to reduce their operating costs.

The heat is a constant reminder of the challenges we face in a global economy. As we navigate these challenges, it's important to stay informed and take steps to protect ourselves and our businesses.

As the weather warms up, many consumers are feeling the heat in more ways than one. Rising energy costs, inflation, and the challenges of a global economy are all contributing to the heat. For many consumers, the heat is a double-edged sword. While it increases the cost of doing business, it also creates a demand for cooling products and services. Air conditioning units, fans, and other cooling equipment are in high demand as the weather warms up.

Multi-use services

As the weather warms up, many consumers are turning to multi-use services to keep cool. Multi-use services, such as air conditioning units and fans, are in high demand as people head to the beach or pool. Multi-use service providers are taking advantage of this demand by推出 new products and promotions.

For those who love multi-use services, there are many options available. From portable air conditioners to ceiling fans, there's something for everyone. And for those who are new to multi-use services, there are many resources available to help them get started.

Multi-use services are a great way to stay cool and comfortable. So, the next time you're feeling the heat, reach for a multi-use service to keep you cool and relaxed.
